A GENEALOGY JOURNEY

A Genealogist's dream is to go to the ancestral county and state and "walk the ground". Last month your Editor "ran away from home" and did just that. I've been saying South Carolina for several summers, but by George, I did it this time! The trip was great; I learned a lot and found out how much more I have to learn! In the next few issues I plan to share some of the information I've gleaned.

First, if you plan to "run away from home" like I did, I want to answer some concerns that I had. Columbia is a lovely city with nice broad streets and even in the down town area traffic was not a major problem. The State Archives' address is 1430 Senate Street. The side street is Bull and the entrance to the parking lot is on Bull. Parking is free for Archives patrons (They give you a parking permit inside.).

The staff is very helpful and will answer questions, help you find materials, and suggest other avenues when you get stuck. The primary search source is the Combined Alphabetical Index. To quote their handout, it is "a computer-generated microfulm finding aid to many early and important record series held by the South Carolina Department of Archives and History. With this index the researcher can find listed in alphabetical order in one place, persons and places from all the record series currently covered. All record series have not been indexed in the same depth. Only the names of the principal parties to a transaction have been included for land grants; conveyances; the Accounts Audited for Revolutionary Service; Court of Common Pleas Judgment Rolls; Summary Process Rolls; and Renunciations of Dower; and the various series of petitions to practice law. Geographic locations are included in the index for land grants and for those conveyances dated earlier than 1765. On the other hand, all personal and place names appearing on the document were included for plats, the Memorial Series in the Records of the Auditor General, tax returns, and bills of sale."

Check this microfilm for each surname you want--be sure to check variant spellings. Ask how to record the items you want to see further--like a Land Grant or Memorial or deed. Other search areas: a card file of military service/information; county records on microfilm; many books of tax lists, stub entries, cemetery listings and census as well as histories and biographies.

Of course, if you can't get to Columbia right away, you may want to do some researching through the mail. Again I quote the Archives handout: "In addition to using this index in the Search Room, limited access is available by mail. Interested persons may request a cost estimate for the index entries under a particular name or all entries for a given surname. A price quotation for paper copies of relevant microfilm frames will be sent. If after ordering and receiving the index entries, the researcher desires copies of particular documents, he should return the index page with the items desired marked. As the index may list many references, researchers are requested to limit their copying requests to twenty entries per request. The index page will be returned with a cost estimate for paper copies of the documents themselves.

The address for the Archives is:

SOUTH CAROLINA DEPARTMENT OF ARCHIVES AND HISTORY
Post Office Box 11669, Capitol Station
Columbia, South Carolina 29211-1669

In addition, they have this list of persons who "have indicated their willingness to make genealogical searches for a fee. If you wish to engage the services of a person whose name appears on the list, please correspond directly with that person as this department can neither make the necessary arrangement for obtaining his services nor be responsible for the searches made by him." (Ed.Note: Be sure to include a SASE!)

An on-going project of the Brazos Genealogical Association has been the listing of Brazos County Cemeteries. This issue of the Advertiser has the Tryon Cemetery and completes the Smetana Cemetery-White. We have some that have not yet run in the Advertiser and some that have not yet been listed; however, we are getting close to publishing our book. As our Sesquicentennial project, we will be "getting it together" this winter.

Another editorial comment: Following are the beginning pages of Bryan City Cemetery Register-Book 4. This one is very interesting as it gives age, place of birth and cause of death, as well as date and location of burial. This will run in the next few issues of the Advertiser. The Bryan City Cemetery books will probably be another publication. Exciting things are happening.

CHARLES DEMORSE

Pioneer Statesman and Father of Texas Journalism

In March of 1842 a young man started from Austin to a small community in northeast Texas called Clarksville. He was accompanied by Red River District Judge Tom T. Mills, Senator Robert Potter and House of Representative member Tom Smith. On the way Potter was murdered by the "Rose" gang. This did not keep DeMorse from reaching his destination.

The Gateway to Texas named for James Clark struck DeMorse as being "a little unattractive". Maybe he expected more! But, its history was unique. Had not the residents of this Red River area west of the Great Bend encouraged Moses Austin to form his colony to the south, the famous Austin's colony might have been centered around Clarksville! However, this region was claimed by both the Mexican and United States governments until 1838, making it, among other reasons, too controversial for the placement of a colony.

The area was so long in history that its first communities were in their last stages of existence! Jonesboro, once a bustling town, was almost gone by 1842. A flood the next year would pull the curtain of doom over its last remaining buidings and leave Clarksville as the main center of commerce and settlement.

A newpaper emerged from DeMorse's efforts--The Northern Standard. This is the story of the paper and the editor. A reprint of the 1943 book by Ernest Wallace. 275 pages. Libraries: you may order now and pay when your budget best allows.

MISSING ANCESTORS? Can not find those ancestors in the 1850 Census? Then check the California census. About 50,000 traveled overland to tne California gold fields while another 50,000 entered through California's ports. But by 1855 23,000 people had left..... (copied from St. Louis Gen. Soc. Jan. 1985)
